Trinity Announces New Compliance Manager

DALLAS, Texas (November 4, 2016) – In recent years, compliance has become a pivotal issue for banks and financial institutions. Because the lack of compliance can leave a company exposed to scrutiny and litigation, Trinity Real Estate Solutions is responding accordingly by hiring a new Compliance Manager to its team, acting as a trusted advisor and compliance subject matter expert.

Designed to assist banks by providing a critical level of accountability and effectiveness, Trinity has appointed Kenneth Friesenhahn as its Compliance and Quality Manager. After spending a decade working around the Texas legislature and four years as a licensed attorney, Kenneth joined Trinity earlier this year within Trinity's Field Services division. With this promotion, Kenneth will be dedicated to analyzing and reviewing business policy and procedures while proactively offering business counsel and advice to ensure compliance with all ongoing regulations. He will also maintain awareness of regulatory recommendations, guidance and changes, ensuring appropriate communication with both internal and external business partners and implementing modifications to business policies, processes and procedures.

"It is Trinity's goal to provide increased value to the financial institutions we serve and respond to the growing number of customer compliance audits," explains Brad Meyer, CEO and President of Trinity Real Estate Solutions. "We are happy to equip ourselves to better serve customers and vendors alike."
