Trinity Real Estate Solutions Expands Portfolio with Built Technologies' Draw Management Platform Integration

May 16, 2017 -- Dallas, Texas and Nashville, Tennessee -- Trinity Real Estate Solutions today announced valuable enhancements for their new construction and renovation lender clients with the integration to Built Technologies' web-based construction draw management platform. Lenders working with Trinity and Built are now able to manage the entire draw administration process online from one place and deliver their clients faster draw turnaround times and full transparency in real-time.

"We are thrilled to partner with Built as this technology grants Trinity's lender clients the ability to automate the construction lending process and get back to what they do best – lending," said Brad Meyer, CEO and President of Trinity Real Estate Solutions. "We're committed to offering the very best solutions to help our clients, and this integration allows us to expand our superior customer service and further accelerate the industry-leading turn times lenders expect from Trinity."

"We're excited to begin this alliance with Trinity because we know what it means for the industry", said Chase Gilbert, President and Co-Founder of Built. "Bringing the entire draw management process online allows lenders to more safely and efficiently administer construction loans and also allows borrowers to receive the digital experience they expect in today's day and age."
